Grosvenor Wants to be "lt."

And Is Making Certain Republicans Very Tired.

Washington, May 6-Just now Representative Grosvenor is astride the necks of the Ohio Republican leaders and riding them over rough ground at a breakneck speed. It all comes through Grosvenor's ambition to give advance notices for the state platform in a speech, which he is preparing in the hopes that he will be chairman of the State Convention. No one would care particularly if Grosvenor did not want to force the State Convention not then in opposition to their action on only to endorse the Republican Na- the Allen farm, they are said to have tional administration, but the Congress, the two senators and the Com-Inittee on Rules in the House. Why. the committee on rules should be endorsed is a little beyond the ken of some of the Ohio Congressmen.

When Foraker made up his mind that he would not be chairman of the State Convention, he gave Grosvenor about half a mile start of all others with such ambition by informing him first and suggesting that he might with great agility. Now he has made such headway that the Republican leaders here see no way of stopping him unless the delegates should decide that they did not want him and would not asylum. have him. The Republicans, however, do think the Sage of Athens is carrying his chairmanship program just a little too far when he declares that he will ask for the State Convention course on the Committee on Rules in the National Congress.

The Fabulous Price For Allen's Farm.

Senate Committee May Refuse to Pay It.

Columbus, O., May 6-The Republian majority of the Senate Finance committee does not propose to stand by the gag Republicans of the House. The members of the Senate Finance committee worked hard Saturday and practically completed their examination of the first general appropriation bill.

This is the bill that the Republicans jammed through the house, and to items in which the Democratic minority entered strenuous objections. It will be remembered that the House poison and all blood diseases. 50c and Democrats put up a hard fight against giving the State Dairy and Food Department great sums of money. The minority also wanted to cut out of the appropriation bill an item of $10,500 for the purchase of land in Athens county from "Si" Allen, ex-clerk of the Supreme court. The objection to this particular item was that the price in excess of the value of the farm was to be paid to a Republican henchman. In the face of this honest opposition, the Rupublicans made the purchase of the Allen farm at an exorbitant price a party measure, and passed it by a majority vote.

The members of the Senate Finance committee considered this item carefully and it is said they have stricken it from the bill. This action repudiates the House Republicans in their desire to help along the game of graft, and vindicates the position of the House

The kick against the large appropriation for the Food and Dairy department was given due consideration by the Senate Finance committee, and added $15,000 to "Joe" Blackburn's demands. The additional sum is to be expended for the collection of the Dow tax under the provisions of the Cain bill, made a law this past week. It is claimed in defense of this increased appropriation that the State Food and Dairy department, will be put to an expense of $15,000 annually to enforce the collection of the Dow tax.

It is said that the Senate Finance Only Three Nights a committee adds about $50,000 to the appropriation bill. The sum of $40,000 is added for a new building at the Gallipolis hospital and the sum of $35-, 000 is added for the construction of an additional building at the Cleveland

The large increases enumerated above are offset by cuts on several items. It is promised that the net ina blanket indorsement of his own Just what the Senate Democrats will do has not been determined. It is a foregone conclusion that they will agree to cutting out the Allen farm appropriation, while it is not so certain that they will agree to increasing the appropriation for the State Food

The Democrats of the Senate say that there is no sense in crossing a bridge before it is reached, and acness as in certain cases where coffee the appropriation bill before it comes
